My dear Sir:-

I have just read with deep interest a pamphlet issued by the Chase Nat. Bank of N. Y. relative to the "Chase Architrave".

This leads me to address you regarding two old coins I have for some time wished to know more about. Both are engraved like the Spanish Milled Dollar of the Mexico coinage. One is the size of our five cent piece, and bears the letter R and number I in place of M F & S on reverse side of dollar. The second piece is slightly larger than our quarter and has the R-2 mark. Both coins bear date of 1748 & 1746 respectively. Which makes them older than the dollar used in the Chase Architrave.

Have these coins value today, other than their age, or as rare additions to a collection?

I shall be glad to hear from you at your convenience.

Very Sincerely,

(Miss) Mary S. Richner.

Dear Madam:

Responding to your note of the 17th, from your description I judge that the coins of which you write are one- and two-real pieces. Unless these coins are in exceptionally brilliant condition they would have very little value above that of their silver content, and certainly not enough to warrant your taking them to a dealer.

Very cordially yours,

Secretary
